Trading has been very dull to-day, which has been caused by the approaching holidays, when manufacturers do not want to take any more stock.

In general, the year has not been as disastrous as we at first thought. The increase in shipments has occurred within the past six months, as since that time business has been up to that of two years ago.

CHICAGO PRODUCE MARKET.
CHICAGO, ILL., December 22.—To-day's short session of the Board of Trade was more than usually dull, the three holidays which will intervene before the next trading-day causing operators to hold off. The room was confined to quarters all day, with the close a shade higher than yesterday. May wheat opened at from 58 to 58%c., sold at 58%c., and closed at 58%c., and closed at 58%c., and closed farm.
Corn—A shie higher than yesterday. Cash wheat sold %c. below yesterday's price, but closed firm.
Corn—A bearish sentiment was still the prominent feature in the corn market. There was nothing in the situation to give hope to holders, and although the trade was light, still sellers had the better of the ground. Prices firmed a little with wheat after an early opening, but they soon fell away again, and closed weak. May corn opened at from 48 to 43%c. sold between 48% and 47%c., and closed at 48c.—4c. under yesterday. Cash corn was weak and ½c. per bushel lower. Oats opened lower, rallied fractionally, and later lost the rally, the action of corn governing them. The business was exceedingly dull and uninteresting. May closed at 514c.
Provisions were not traded in aside from chansling options, January being converted into May. The hog market was reported

While the flowers are fresh upon the anguish when we recall the sad fact that she we loved so well has gone from our midst forever. We can but think of her as yesterday, moving gracefully among us in our homes, around our firesides her voice making melody, and her smile giving joy and cheer to those around her A few short years ago she left her Vis giata home, a happy bride, to cast he future among strangers, who soon be came loving friends. Well may thou who were the participants of her hospitality, generosity, and charity, never with holding any good thing from those is need, sickness, and distress, shed team when the bitter hour of parting came When laid upon the bed of intense aus fering for long, weary months, she exemplified the most beautiful Christian for titude. Her faith and her hope of eternative sustained and strengthened her is life sustained and strengthened her is those days and nights of pain, and whe asked "if she was not weary and tired," "Oh, yes; but life is labor—death is rest."
